Public resolution number 1, 76th congress, in section 4 (a) and 4 (b) provides that:

Sec. 4 (a)—It shall be unlawful for any person employed in any administrative or supervisory capacity by any agency of the federal government, whose compensation or any part thereof is paid from funds authorized or appropriated by the emergency relief appropriation act of 1933 or this joint resolution, to use his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the results thereof. OPPOSES TAX RAISE

West Liberty, Ky., May 26, 1941 To the taxpayers of Morgan county: So far as I know no effort has been made at Frankfort to secure a reduction of the rate of 30 percent on farm lands, 15 percent on town lots, and 10 percent on intangible property, other than my correspondence and efforts to make them do something about it, and I understand they are reconsidering this raise for Morgan county.

Last year by mistake or error 15 percent was placed on town lots and collected that was never made by the state tax commission, that should be refunded to the owners of real estate in West Liberty.

I am against this unscrupulous raising of real estate for taxes when there are more and more farms that have to be sold yearly to pay taxes where the people are not able to do it, and I have hoped that sooner or later we would get some officers that would fight high taxes.

You know that as a private citizen or as an officer I have always been the people's friend, and I am still fighting your fights.

You know as well as I do that there is not a reason in the world to raise your tax list one third, and I want you to think of this and vote for people that have your interests at heart, for it may come a time right in this primary where we will have to do something about this. I am Sincerely your friend, LYNN B. WELLS, Atty.

An Idea or Two

Nasty Nazis need nullifying.

American realists must rally around Roosevelt.

President declares emergency exists, but some people just won't believe it.

Don't stay away from church because of hypocrites—there's always room for one more.

As we see it, the worst trouble with our young people is that they are too much like their elders.

There are good Germans, but most of them are either outside of Germany or in concentration camps.

Hitler is proving that Lincoln was right in saying that some of the people can be fooled all the time.

That seems to us a poor religion which forbids its adherents to defend the liberty that permits it to exist.

A farm is a place where you work hard most of your life to save enough money to move to town, where you wish you were back on the farm.

In selecting our county officials, let us remember that a man will not suddenly become capable and wise just because he is elected to office.

We hope that the failure of Morgan county and school officials to publish financial statements as required by law is their only dereliction of duty—or maybe we ought to say we wish that it were.

Here's hoping that some persons who have occupied teaching positions for the sake of salaries attached can soon get better paying jobs and make room for teachers who know something they want to teach.

"Keep cool, don't get excited, this is not our war. Hitler won't hurt you, go on about your business as usual"—such advice seems as sensible to us now as if our house were threatened by fire a few feet away and some nincompoop should say, "What's the difference, let them put out their own fire, maybe your house won't catch, let's forget about it and go fishing."

THE WAY TO PEACE

Morrow, Ohio, May 24, 1941
Editor Courier:

I enjoy very much the letters sent in to your paper by our many Christian friends. They are very interesting. I note especially the "Christian Pledge" a few weeks ago by Arthur Briscoe and the "Responsibility of Parents to the Child" by Mrs. Noah Nickell. These and many others are very inspiring. For we indeed see the great need of Christianity in the whole world.

We behold our nation as it stands today and wait in agony and suspense for what tomorrow may bring.

We behold the countries in the far east with their terror and horrors of war, as they cry for peace and liberty, and for leaders to lead them on to victory.

But we wonder how many today are beholding our loving Savior as He hung in agony and pain, bleeding and dying on the cross of Calvary to free us from the bondage of sin.

May God help us as a people of all nations to behold this scene, and choose Christ as our leader, and when we do, then it is that swords shall be beaten into plow shares, and the spears into pruninghooks, and we shall know war no more.

REPUTATION AND CHARACTER

Twenty-six, Ky., May 27, 1941
Editor Courier:

Reputation is what you are supposed to be, character is what you are.

Reputation is the photograph, character is the face.

Reputation is what you have when you come to a new community, character is what you have when you go away.

Your reputation is learned in an hour, character does not come to light for a year.

Reputation is made in a moment, character is built in a life time.

Reputation grows like a mushroom, character grows like an oak.

Reputation goes like a mushroom, character lasts like eternity.

A single newspaper report gives your reputation, a life of toil gives your character.

If you want a position you need a reputation, if you want to keep it you need a character.

Reputation makes you rich or poor, character makes you happy or miserable.

Reputation is what is said on your tombstone, character is what angels say about you before the throne of God.

Reputation is the basis of temporal judgment of men, character is the basis of eternal judgment of God.

and propaganda of war upset our nerves and fire us to hatreds.

The war in Europe is not our war. We did nothing to cause it and can do nothing to stop it without making a bad matter worse for ourselves.

The welfare of America is still bound up with industry, honor, national integrity, and faith in humanity.

America is our country—not England or France or Germany or Italy, or any other nation except that which lies safely under the stars and stripes. Let us thank God we can be free and happy, and let us, now and always, keep America first in our hearts and minds.

So we may be worthy of our name, America's Volunteers!

AAA CONFERENCE

The growing menace to America from war developments, and the urgency for farmers to increase production of certain foods needed for Britain while restricting production of others, was the highlight of the central regional conference at Charlotte, N. C., according to Dillard Murphy, county AAA chairman of Ezel, who represented Morgan county.

The purpose of the conference was to give farmers throughout the region a chance to offer their suggestions for improving next year's AAA program. Mr. Murphy said. Every farmer was assigned to one of seven working committees which mapped plans for the 1942 farm program to be discussed at the national AAA meeting in Washington in June, he explained, and added that war considerations dominated all the discussions.

Mr. Murphy was most impressed by the fighting speech of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, who declared that this is no time for half-way measures, and that the food and munitions America is producing must reach Britain safely and quickly if the United States is to be defended.

Elsewhere during the conference, Mr. Murphy picked up authoritative figures which show that British imports of all products have dropped from the rate of 65 million tons per year pre war to 27 million tons, due to shipping losses. Thirty five million tons of imports have been regarded as the danger line, he said. Normal food imports have been at 22 and one-half million tons per year, but this has been cut to 12 million tons. Recently, however, this amount was increased to 14 million tons at the expense of munitions imports, badly as they are needed, because of the growing food shortage, he explained.

He further reported the conference as follows: R. M. Evans, administrator of the AAA, outlined the job of the Triple A under present conditions, and pointed out that the farm program is protecting farmers from the worst price depressing effect of the war. He emphasized that the program gives farmers an unequalled opportunity to serve the country at this time by adjusting production quickly to the needs of the hour.

Director Finn emphasized that the responsibility for the successful operation of the farm program rests squarely on the shoulders of the committeemen whom the farmers have elected. "Much has been accomplished," said Mr. Finn, "especially in soil building, in adjusting production, in using marketing quotas to control surpluses and especially in informing farmers about the issues that affect them and the nation."

Puerto Rico Has Gold In Moderate Quantities

Paraphrasing Christopher Columbus and Ponce de Leon were mistaken! History says that Columbus, who accidentally came to the New world in search of gold and spices, touched on the west coast of Puerto Rico just long enough to take on a supply of fresh water and then sailed away, never to return. Consequently he found no gold nor spices there, nor did anyone else for more than 400 years. But current developments on the Caribbean island indicate that Columbus may have been too hasty, for both spices and at least a modest amount of gold will be yielded up by the little United States territory.

Ponce tarried in Puerto Rico for some years but eventually sailed away to Florida where he received a mortal spear wound. Legend says he went in search of the Fountain of Youth. However, the less romantic story is that he, too, went to look for the gold he couldn't find in Puerto Rico. But it's there, after all.

No one on the island expects a duplication of the Klondike gold rush, and there apparently are no fabulous deposits of the eagerly sought ore, but there is gold. Two New Yorkers who have leased property in the Puerto Rican mountains feel confident enough of their find that they have applied for a loan from the federal government and are asking the insular authorities to construct a community mill where they and other miners could crush their ore.

At the present time, vanilla is the spice grown in the largest quantities, Puerto Rico being the only place under the United States flag where vanilla production seems feasible. So far fewer than 500 acres have been planted, but the government has plans for a co-operative vanilla curing establishment and a Philadelphia corporation has purchased a large acreage of vanilla land.

In addition, research workers at the experiment station of the United States department of agriculture, searching eagerly for new crops to swell the island's income, feel that such spices as nutmeg and mace and certain perfumes can be produced there profitably, preliminary experiments having been quite encouraging.

The value of the gold in Puerto Rico has not been estimated, but it is believed that vanilla alone can be developed into a million dollar a year crop, and the other spices may produce sizeable incomes. The island hopes that the federal government will approve plans which have been prepared for a large school of tropical agriculture, of which one function would be seeking out ways to produce other new spices and similar products.

Golf Is Popular Study With Nation's Scholars

Nearly 400,000 high school and university students have been introduced to golf through school instruction during the past three years, according to a survey made by the National Golf foundation.

The 400,000 growth is the largest increase in golf's roster during any three-year period of the game's American history. The foundation investigation revealed impetus for the increase was furnished by school physical educators' extension of athletic programs to enlist participation of all students unless physically incapacitated, and greater emphasis now being placed on sports having carry-over value for students in post-school life.

Co-operation of golf professionals in providing expert instruction to school students also is credited with being a major factor in the development.

Among universities now boasting of student golf courses having high rating among courses in their vicinities are Yale, Stanford, Michigan, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Iowa State college.

Masonry Waterproofing

A colorless waterproofing liquid is being marketed which, its manufacturers maintain, will prevent the entrance of water or snow into joints, cracks, or fissures in brick, concrete, stucco, art stone, cut stone, and other porous masonry. This liquid prevents ugly staining of walls and ornamental stone construction without changing the appearance of the building. It penetrates and fills the pores, forming an inner lining of an insoluble substance.

Iran Forms Aero Club

To make his country more air minded, the shah of Iran has caused the organization of an aero club, which will interest itself in the construction in Iran of airports, hangars and schools for pilots. The shah made a substantial contribution to the club and other members of the imperial family and government officials in Teheran also donated funds. Any contributor of $600 or more is privileged to be presented to the shah.

Rome's Water Clock

One of the world's strangest clocks stands in the Villa Borghese, Rome's largest municipal park. It is operated by means of water power. The water drops from a fountain and is caught into a series of descending cups providing the motive power for the mechanism. The clock has been operating for over a hundred years and has kept perfect time.

BAND SERENADES

Thursday evening, May 15, after the band concert at the high school auditorium, the Morgan county high school band under direction of W. C. Reeves marched through town and to the home of T. H. Caskey, where Mr. Caskey was given a serenade. As the band marched through town bystanders fell in behind and by the time the Caskey home was reached the streets were lined with people. Mr. Caskey had retired for the night but was only too glad to welcome the band. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Stacey presented him with two lovely baskets of flowers.

Mr. Caskey has been in ill health for some time but is improving. He was unable to attend the concert so the concert was brought to him. He wishes to thank Mr. Reeves for his kindness and commends him for his able service with the band.

DECORATE YOUR SUMMER

With colors that Compliment You

In the past decade or more we have been increasingly conscious of color. As Catherine I. Long puts it, "We have been attracted, educated, entertained, and sold by color." Now, what colors do we as home economists and preparatory home makers use to decorate our homes?

The true blue which holds us to our work after school is out. We are still at work, we choose to see some accomplishments, let me know you'd like to go along and we'll visit some of the girls in the actual process of construction.

An adequate national defense must include the proper organization and mobilization of our national resources, and we are a part of the entire resources and are offering our meager contribution. As Mary Sweeney states, "The first thing we have to do in a national emergency is to coordinate our thinking, work together, have common objectives, and keep in step, decide on a part, fundamentals of family nutrition and practice it."

Family health is the first line of defense. Family clothing, shelter, and social morale are other important factors. Home economics is so expansive that any phase fits into a national defense, whether constructive socially, materially, or physically.

"As long as facts remain in sealed laboratory terms they do the public no good." Facts are merely the tools of learning. The stuff of learning is the experience of the people. Real experience has taken the place of bare facts and vocational training is one of the fields that has received with open arms the practical side of real experience and is climbing securely around the cliff in the teeth of the wind looking for any aid.

Well-grown field to work to influence—to help produce practically economically minded young people. With these qualities and many others the classes of the recently past school year are showing their colors by continuing their training into summer project work. They are doing such things as interior decorating, home improvement, clothing construction, make over garments, flower gardening, vegetable gardening, canning, upholstery, etc.

They are decorating their summer with colors that complement them. Helen Walter, Home Economics Teacher.

PORK

In recent weeks much has been said about food. It is realized by most farmers by now that hogs are very much in demand and will probably continue to be in demand years. This is true because pork is one of our essential foods in time of peace as well as war.

Tuesday, May 20, Grady Sellards visited our county for the purpose of assisting in a more efficient pork production program for this county. Mr. Sellards states that this is especially important now because of increased demands for pork.

Several farm visits were made to see hogs and methods of handling them.

Because pork is such an important item in the diet, hogs are important livestock. Practically every farmer should raise enough hogs to provide pork for home use. Whatever the number of hogs produced good methods should be practiced.

Good stock is a good start, but to stop there is to invite the same result as always occurs with scrubs. Only when properly fed and cared for do well bred hogs produce more satisfactorily than scrub hogs.

Corn is our best hog feed but it does not provide all the nutrients needed by the hog. It is for that reason that hogs on a corn-scrub ration in dry lot are disappointing and do not thrive. The younger the hog the greater is his need for protein feeds, such as skim milk and tankage, along with corn, and good pasture.

Pasture will go a long way toward balancing the grain fed to hogs. In the wake of the lime and phosphorus program good pastures have increased materially. But the proper use of them has not kept pace. Hogs should have a place in the pasture consumption program. To keep hogs in dry lots one must expect to feed about a third more corn.

"But I haven't sufficient fencing," is a plaint frequently voiced. If not, have you tried an electric fence. Such fences are comparatively inexpensive, both the purchase and operating costs. With an electric fence a hog pasture can be cut off right in the midst of the pastures used for other purposes. And this can be done within two or three hours.

But pasture and corn is not the whole story in hog feeding: small amounts of tankage or skim milk are needed. The simplest way to provide the extra protein feed is to provide the extra tankage and pasture, the simplest plan, is to keep an extra cow. If that cannot be done, then protein feed must be bought. Tankage usually is the most dependable of such feeds. And, just now, it sells at about $2.75, or a little above, per 100 pounds. This seems a high price to pay, but considered in the light of its feeding qualities the price is not too high. 100 pounds of tankage is equivalent in feeding value to 7 1/2, or more, bushels of corn.

If fed all they will eat of corn and skim milk or tankage, spring-farrowing pigs will grow big enough for good "killing" hogs by fall.

Middlings are not a satisfactory supplement to corn, or other grain, and should not be depended upon to balance the pig's ration. Middlings are good to feed along with corn and milk, or corn and tankage and pasture. Middlings are especially valuable for sows suckling pigs, but there again, tankage or milk in addition to middlings and corn should be fed.

The amount of feed required to produce a hog doesn't vary a great deal whether you give it to him in six months or 12 months. So why not hurry the thing along with those spring pigs?

And if you can find no way to get your hogs on pasture, the next best is to cut clover, or other green feed daily and feed the animals. This will pay and pay well.—Yandal Wrather, County Agent.
